THOSE who remember a late night in the life of the world are sure to remember the night when the world was young and we were all getting started in life.

IN India, fire is working its way through the forests and the flames are reaching the sky. The fire is burning in the forests of the Himalayas and the flames are reaching the sky.

BRISBANE—British leaders with their own eyes have seen the flames of the fire in the forests of the Himalayas and the flames are reaching the sky.

British Cabinet Returns Next Week to Tackle Three Major Problems

LENZ LOSES IN BRIDGEMATCH TO CULBERTSONS

Proponents of "Official" System Quit With $9,850 Minus

By SIDNEY S. LENZ

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—The one hundred and fifty-third rubber of his match against Ely Culbertson, of whom it was intended, against his "approach" system has been played, and he won the match by five points, after being $11,353 points ahead at one stage.

I accepted the challenge to prove the merits of the variation of the official system, called the 1, 3, 5 official system, and any rubbers judge will admit Sidney S. Lenz that it has shown its superiority when its rules were altered.

When Commander Winfield Liggett, Jr., entered the match the minus score was 14,350 points; therefore, considering only the rubbers he had to have played, he won out with 7,850 points. This statement certainly shows the superiority of the 1, 3, 5 official system, and it is a reflection on Mr. Lenz's game, but it is not in the game, he and his friends, instead of playing any definite system, and the question of how well the innumerable people like him would come off if that was a question of sound bridge.

PLAYED SYSTEM ONLY
During the 47 rubbers the Commander and I have played together, we played the one, two, three official system and nothing else, and have not had a single rubber. As to Mr. Culbertson, he also has claimed down considerably during the last few sessions, just trying to hold on to his side, and if the match is continued, the last 47 rubbers must be given much more weight than the preceding ones.

The minus score of $400 on 140 rubbers, or 473 points, on average, is not considered decisive in any way when twelve thousand or more have been lost repeatedly in one session in rubber bridge.

I shall spend the next few days going over the records of the match and analyzing them for the readers of this article. There are some very interesting conclusions to be drawn and I hope that they will be of real value to the average player.

After passes by the Commander and Mr. Culbertson, I bid one heart, which Culbertson overruled with one heart, when the Commander bid one heart and one diamond, and he overruled with one heart and one diamond.

We succeeded in winning the first rubber, but it was very difficult, as I had been at six hundred points when we had won the first rubber, and I had a legitimate overall of two clubs over Culbertson. WIN SECOND RUBBER

PRETTY SQUEEZE PLAY
Had I gone to five diamonds, the rub would have been rather large, because of the situation that opening in Mrs. Culbertson. She not only succeeded in making her doublet correct, but made an extra trick by a pretty squeeze play. Culbertson Triumphs in Score and Rubbers—Wife Aids in Play—Little Difference in Systems

By TOM O'NEIL
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—Ely Culbertson triumphed. He ended his month's contract bridge match with Sidney S. Lenz in a test of rival bidding systems 5,850 points ahead, having won 77 rubbers to 73 for Lenz.

Mrs. Culbertson finished the match, as her husband's partner as she started, and she won the match by five points, after being $11,353 points ahead at one stage.

With good cards on the first hand of the last rubber Culbertson refused to bid, saying he could not lose. "I think that is unparliamentary," said Lenz, who had been leading "I am making no mistake."

There was a very little difference between the two systems, he said. "One is simpler, that's all," he said. "One is simpler, that's all," he said. "One is simpler, that's all," he said.

REPARATIONS, DISARMAMENT, TARIFF BILLED

Country United in Resolute Determination to Pull Through

By GEORGE HAMILTON
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Jan. 8.—The British cabinet returns to the task during the coming week with the triple problem of reparations, disarmament and general tariff. And it returns with the country presenting an amiable, yet united, front to the situation to pull through.

The battle days which preceded the formation of the National government have yielded to restrained optimism. The point of view stands at a level in the international market which brought consideration a few months ago. Yet no sign is visible of the abandonment of the gold standard.

HUDSON now builds Hudson and Essex Cars IN CANADA

Hudson Motor Car Company announces the formation of Hudson-Exsex of Canada, Limited, a new great Canadian industrial enterprise, located at Tilbury, Ont.

Under this name Hudson and Essex cars—the two superb Pacemakers of 1932—are being manufactured on Canadian soil, by Canadian workmen, in a modern motor car plant now established and beginning operations.

This is a new Canadian large-scale operation in fact as well as in name. During the new year before us, this factory will supply the total requirements of all Hudson and Essex distributors and dealers throughout the Dominion.

Canada can thank its own motorists for this latest addition to its brilliant roll call of industries, for there are now on its far-flung highways a total of more than sixty-five thousand Hudson and Essex cars.

By this new factory in Canada, Hudson shows its appreciation of and recognizes its obligation to this vast army of owners and also expresses in a genuine and tangible way its earnest desire to become an important factor in the Dominion's future prosperity.

More than ever, in the weeks and months ahead, the people of Canada will have many good reasons to "Watch Hudson—which means Essex, too."

IF IT WILL ALBERTA THE EDMONTON BULLETIN IS FOR IT

SATURDAY, JANUARY 9 THINGS MIGHT BE WORSE

Detroit officials report that the city cannot meet its payroll, and unless the city employees take a salary reduction they may face worse. Philadelphia a couple of weeks ago broke the news that it too, was facing the future with empty coffers, and last night it was paying its employees when pay day came along. As for Chicago, the school teachers, firemen and policemen there have probably long since ceased to speculate on when they are likely to get their salaries, past present or to come.

Canadian cities may draw what consolation they can from knowing that these larger cities across the line are in worse plight than they are. Most of the cities in Canada have been having anything but pleasant going since the financial debacle strewed their pathways with difficulties. Just so far as comfort in the line it has not been in any of the larger centres, and it has been kept discreetly quiet.

CANADA'S WINTER RESORTS

Not all Canadians have "gone broke" in the last two years. There is ample evidence that. Thousands of them will winter, as usual, in the mountains, or on the coast, or in the climate milder than can be boasted in the prairie province and the eastern provinces. These will be strong indications that they are directing their steps to the southern States in the fact that the Canadian dollar is doing duty for ninety cents on the other side of the line.

This should be a good time for Canada's cities on the Pacific coast to make known the attractions they have to offer as winter resorts. The publicity bureaux of Vancouver and Victoria should be running a line of persuasive advertising just now in the columns of newspapers published in Alberta and other provinces where winter is commonly a reality and not a myth. The cities of the coast have the attractions. But in these days it is not enough to have goods to sell. One has to tell the public that he has them if he wants to get them.

If Vancouver and Victoria are to a degree counting on the United States exchange rate driving Canadian winter tourists to these cities they are overlooking one important possibility. The tourists may decide to stay at home and save their money, unless, that is, they find that there are places in Canada where the winters are mild. If not so reminded, many of them are fairly likely to surmise that the mildness of the winter in the States is exaggerated in past years, and that the attempt to "boom" these as winter resorts has been abandoned as a lost cause.

CHANG GETS OUT

Marshal Chang Hsueh Liang decided to evacuate Chinchow, and having so decided proceeded to withdraw his army behind the great wall, despite frantic orders from Nanking to hold the fort. The great wall would afford much protection against modern artillery and air bombers, but that it marks the boundary between China proper and Manchuria, and that no likelihood that the Japs have any intention of going beyond it. As to their intentions in Manchuria, the western world and Nanking may entertain doubts, and illusions, but Chang has neither.

To Chang the Japanese occupation of his province is a very real and profitable fact. He neither questions the nature of the operation nor expects that the invaders will fold up their tents and steal away at the bidding of Chinese government, or anybody else. He just got out while the getting was good, inspired by a clear and lively understanding of the southward movement of Japanese troops, which understanding the Japanese proceeded to prove sound by promptly occupying his life capital. That explains what he thinks of the progress of events in Manchuria, their present status and future development.

With Chang goes the last remnant of organized official Chinese authority in Manchuria, in so far as the terms may apply to whatever authority he has been wielding at Chinchow. Nothing remains in the province that bears even the pretence of being a Chinese government or governing body. Instead there is the provisional government set up by the invaders and supported by them; and the bandits. To the latter the Japanese will proceed to direct their active attention, since they represent the one surviving local factor.

The bandits may be found to be tougher adversaries than the troops of Chang. Plunder is their business, and they have evidently found it profitable, since their name is legion. That they will be hunted down with vigor is to be supposed. Tokyo will hardly have borne the cost of conquering the country only to turn it over to freebooters. Unless and until their power is broken, order and industry cannot be evolved. And this must be done at Japanese investment in the Manchurian railways is to be made profitable and the territory opened up for the development on which the new proprietors no doubt calculated when they decided to take possession of it.

Over against the fact that the whole procedure seems to western minds to be in contravention of treaties and pacts, may be the consideration that the Manchurians are now in prospect of being given the protection and benefits of effective government, something they have not had and are perhaps willing to accept even at Japanese hands. The withdrawal of Chang bespeaks his unwillingness as to the program.

Attractive Programs Presented by Edmonton Theatres for Coming Week

Lawrence Tibbett Sings In Strand Film Offering

Takes Lead in "The Cuban Love Song" Now

"The Cuban Love Song," dramatic romance of a man and a girl in the tropics, brings Lawrence Tibbett, famous baritone and seven star, to the Strand Theatre in what is undoubtedly his most interesting role since "The Beguine Song."

In a modern story, replete with drama, adventure, comedy and haunting music, Tibbett is seen as a washboarding marine. The story begins before the war and comes down to the present day.

There are novelties galore—an interested Cuban orchestra and Lopez Velez directing the "Beguine," Tibbett singing "The Cuban Love Song," "Trains at Sea" and a thrilling deep sea chase.

W. S. Van Dyke directed the production, and crammed it with deep little touches such as the "singing horse" in the Cuban jungle.

Comedy is in capable hands, for Ernest Torrence and Jimmy Durante provided it as the two marine comrades of the hero of the story and the amusing Louie Fazenda plays a dimitting show.

FAMOUS PAIR LOVERS NOW AT CAPITOL

Charles Farrell and Janet Gaynor Are Stars in "Delicious"

Presenting Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in the type of romantic drama that has won them wide acclaim, "Delicious," their latest Fox melody romance, opens today at the Capitol Theatre, where it will be shown for three days.

Janet is seen as a Scotch immigrant lass, emulsified in a world of difficulties as she eludes the authorities to enter America illegally. Chief of these is the decision she is forced to make between two suitors, one of whom is Charles Farrell who befriends her in getting himself thoroughly misadventured shortly thereafter by his attempts to assist her.

Everything comes out happily in the end, however, and Janet, instead of being sent back home as an undesirable alien is allowed to take a boat for a honeymoon voyage with the man of her choice.

A splendid cast including El Brendel, Paul Brown, and Charles Farrell, Virginia Cherrill, Alice Tully and many others, is featured in this picture.

Yen for Business

Janet Gaynor who takes feminine lead in "Delicious," at the Capitol Theatre has always had an urge to be business. She dreamed of becoming a lady of fickle fame and her dream came true. But she still has a fondness for the life of a centre stage and states that if she had not "arrived" she would be now operating an antique shop in San Francisco.

LOVE DRAMA FOR RIALTO NEXT WEEK

"Men In Her Life" Comes To City for Three-day Run on Monday

A love story that is colorful as well as sentimental is officially told in "Men In Her Life," a Columbia feature showing at the Rialto Theatre next Monday to Wednesday, with Lois Moran and Charles Rickard in the leading roles.

Briefly, it is the experience of new Julia Cavanaugh, a beautiful society girl, in her quest for romance. She finds life in chasing her of it, she goes from fiancé to fiancé, for something something, she finds it, or thinks she has, only to discover that it's a sham.

The superficial qualities of the men had fooled her into believing that she had found the real thing, but she discovers that the man who was lacking in all the social virtues commonly attributed to gentlemen, was the one real gentleman of her life.

Charles Rickard as Fanny Madden, a woman who is a victim of her own performance. He makes it as vibrant and hair. Lois Moran is sweet and appealing as Julia Cavanaugh, the central figure of the picture.

Victor Varconi is ideally cast as the villainous Count Orloff, and Donald Dillaway makes Dick Webster a convincing character.

St. David's Society Plans Big Concert For Jan. 16 Next

The St. David's Welsh Society of All Saints Parish hall on Saturday, Jan. 16, a splendid program of entertainment has been arranged by the committee and the following artists will take part: Miss Mabel Hunt, soprano; Miss Nan Steel, contralto; W. T. Cramb, tenor; Jack Williams, baritone; Jack Jones, comedian; Mrs. Ernest Thomas, accompanist.

They will be assisted by the St. David's Welsh Male Voice Choir, conducted by George Williams, and accompanied by Miss Bessie Hall.

E.S.O. CONCERT IN REHEARSAL

With the Junior Chamber of Commerce behind its efforts the Edmonton Symphony Orchestra is almost assured of completing the current season with a series of concerts.

In preparation for this the players are rehearsing faithfully under the baton of the conductor, Frederick Holden-Bushworth and the program selected for the next concert promises to be of exceptional interest.

The chief item will be Beethoven's Third Symphony, which contains some of the most beautiful music in the great Master of Bonn.

The orchestra will be well up in strength and while the exact date of its appearance has not yet been set, it is expected that it will be near the end of the current month.

NOTED SINGER APPEARS HERE

Ethel Codd Luenig, Is Former City Resident

Mrs. Ethel Codd Luenig, soprano, who is to appear in recital at the new Metro Theatre, 100 Avenue on Saturday evening, under the auspices of the Women's Musical Club, is a former resident of this city, having lived here for three years.

She and her husband, Otto Luenig, flautist and composer, arrived in this city on Thursday evening and are guests at the Macdonald Hotel.

An Ethel Codd, Mrs. Luenig first achieved fame in winning a soprano solo event at Saskatoon and a short time later joined the Brandon Opera Company which in 1923 and 1924 played several engagements here in "The Chocolate Soldier" and other operas. Later she went to the East in the School of Music, Rochester, N.Y. where she met her husband, Otto Luenig, and in Germany rounded out her scholastic career.

Last summer she was a member of the C.P.R. Banquet Hotel opera company and sang "Lorraine" in an abbreviated version of "Pinafore" and other roles. Many Edmontonians have marvelled at her voice and yet did not know she hailed from this city.

From here she came to Toronto where she has made engagements and is to appear in recital at Carnegie Hall, New York.

This takes place in 'A Lady's Morals,' Grace Moore's first Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, a romance based on the life of the Swedish singer, which has been a popular opera star opera a three-day engagement at the Empress Theatre Monday, such well-known Barnum pictures as the great 'General Tom Thumb,' the living skeleton, 'Rip Van Winkle' and other old characters, are seen in the picture, which tells the romantic story of Jenny Lind and her lover who goes blind and leaves her for the sake of her career.
